Opening

Students suck it up and go to class even on the gorgeous spring days when their minds are anywhere but class.

Mike Burke gave his Homecoming enthusiasm free reign as he sampled the offerings on the Midway.

George Crampton lends the luck of the Irish to the Elizabethtown men's soccer team.

A step back from the center of campus, it is easy to see that academics are only part of the picture.

A scuba-diving class?? Who knew college could be this much fun! It's amazing the things you can get credit for.

A Sharper Image. . .

Another year has drawn to a close almost before it began, flying even faster than the last few. In an attempt to preserve the emotions and events of the past year, we have created Sharper Image, a compilation of photos tying together our common experiences. It shows us at our finest and at our worst; at work and at play.

This book is a collection of snapshots, of frozen moments in time that will live on in our memories. We offer it to you, with its glimpses of life as we knew it during the past year. Each of you will transform these images to fit your experiences. We hope it will remain a constant reminder of 1995 college life.

Sharper Image captures the highlights of club activities, special events, and the people who make Elizabethtown College unique. Each photo tells its own story. Listen carefully, look closely, and the essence of the year will surface. In your hands you hold the images that will sharpen your memories and serve as lasting reminders of your experiences at Elizabethtown College.

It is our pleasure to provide you with this book. For us it will be a lasting achievement to have created the only permanent record of this school year. College is supposed to be the best time of our lives, so as one more year has slipped through our fingers, may Elizabethtown and 1995 live on in Sharper Image.

The long line didn't disappear all afternoon as students waited to have their caricatures drawn during TGIS Weekend.

Michelle Tinney played emcee during the dinner concert for the TGIS picnic.

Rich Krebs takes a moment to relax and watch the activities from afar.

The library steps provided the stage as Kim Walters entertained the audience at the One-Acts during the Spring Arts Festival.

The Battle of the Air Bands is always a crowd-pleaser. Students staked out their seats early, then settled in to enjoy the show.

The evening picnic is a relaxing end to the TGIS events, especially when Mother Nature dishes up such beautiful weather.

The Battle of the Air Bands drew an enormous crowd this year, and students weren't disappointed by the performances. John Rorick, Gary Sprengel, and Mat Cook, a.k.a. "The Jive Bunnies", won the contest.

Laura Spink takes advantage of the nice spring weather by studying outside.

Despite the planned TGIS activities, students still found time to "stop and smell the roses" with friends.

Ahhh. . . food, friends, fun and relaxation. TGIS gives students a chance to forget their worries and enjoy the finer things in life.

Angie, Jim, and Amy review music notes outside before a big exam.

Warm days are just too nice to spend cooped up inside. Many E-town students enjoy spending time outside soaking up the sun or just chatting with a friend.

Mae is one of the many students at E-town who rollerblades, the latest trend on campus.

APB had plenty of shirts to go around this year. The shirts display all the weekly activities for the annual spring festival, and are always in high demand.

Heather sings and dances to "The Lion Sleeps Tonight" at the Battle of the Air Bands.

As part of the Spring Arts Festival, students perform a series of skits and plays on the steps of the High Library. Students, alumni, and community members assembled to be entertained by tales of princesses and frogs.

Rob Bustin ponders for a moment. . . Looks like a tough question!

John Manis's broken foot didn't stop him and Gretchen Nonemaker from enjoying TGIS events.

E-town controlled the game against Moravian at Homecoming, as this shot indicates.

The Spring Arts Festival is filled with everything from clowns to singing--literally!

No one can resist the lure of a sunny bench and a good book. Julia Powell puts her free time to good use.

Michelle Lemke and Ken Nichols focus on the band's performance during the TGIS picnic held on the Brinser/Ober field. Nothing tastes better than hamburgers and hotdogs eaten in the fresh air.

Rollerblading mania has arrived! As one of the fastest ways to travel around campus, many students have adopted this new mode of transportation.

Brian Ogle relaxes after his bike ride, an activity that many students enjoy when the warm weather returns.

The front step of Royer is just one of Royer residents' favorite hang-out spots.

The relationships that form between students and professors here at E-town do not stop at the classroom door. Dan McHenry and Professor Severeid talk shop during some unexpected free time.

Jenny Baker demonstrates the proper technique for making a flour-filled stress ball. With only a few weeks until finals, why should she need one of those??

The Velcro Obstacle Course provided entertainment for participants and spectators alike.

The parachuters added a special touch to this year's Homecoming celebration.

Chad and Angel take time out to catch up on everything before the demands of finals week descend.

SPECIAL EVENTS

Another year has passed and many news-worthy events that occurred throughout the U.S.A. quickly come to mind. For example, the world has tuned into the O.J. Simpson trial (which will probably still be in progress when next year's Conestogan comes out). We saw Billy Joel and Christie Brinkley end their marriage, but witnessed the nuptials of Lisa Marie Presley and Michael Jackson. The death of Jackie O. and the bombing of a federal building in Oklahoma City shocked the nation. Yet again in our country's history, the president sent troops to a foreign country, this time to Somalia. Forrest Gump hit movie theatres everywhere and eventually won the Oscar for Best Picture. The hockey strike caused some dissension among the people and just like the pink Energizer bunny rabbit, the baseball strike kept on going and going....

But here at Elizabethtown we had special events of our own kind. Homecoming, Winter Wonderland and TGIS weekend were annual events that students looked forward to throughout the year. This was also the first year for the Into the Streets community project, which is set to become an annual tradition as well. By participating in these special events through the year, students get a sharper image of life within the college and in the surrounding world.

Convocation

Before introducing the speaker for Convocation, President Speigler commended the College Scholars for their outstanding achievements thus far.

Standing proudly before peers, friends, and family, the scholars are recognized for their accomplishments.

'The Search for Truth'

As gusts of wind blew across the campus, students, faculty, and family members gathered to honor the College Scholars at the annual College Convocation held at the Midway. The College Scholars are selected each spring and will retain this honor until the following spring. The students chosen as scholars have earned at least a 3.75 grade point average and have accumulated a minimum of sixty credits.

The speaker for this year's Convocation was Seyyed Hossein Nasr, the University Professor of Islamic Studies at George Washington University. Originally from Tehran, Iran, Nasr has lectured extensively worldwide. His speech for Convocation discussed the search for truth in science and religion. He also reflected on the condition of the globe and its relationship to cultures and the environment. He challenged students to continue their search for the truth in life. So as another academic year continues, our College Scholars are an inspiration to their classmates and community.

Challenging the students of E-town to search for the truth, Professor Seyyed Nasr of Iran was this year's guest speaker.

The faculty lines up to show their stuff at the Convocation ceremony.

Homecoming

Beautiful fall weather prevailed as yet another E-town Homecoming Weekend was made a success. Midway festivities were kicked off by the first annual parade, which featured floats with movie themes such as the Rocky Horror Picture Show and a tribute to Walt Disney.

The Midway itself offered crafts, food and momentos from clubs on campus. It also featured human bowling as a point of interest for all.

The men's soccer team posted a 4-0 victory over Moravian. During halftime, inductees for the Athletic Hall of Fame were honored. Also occurring was the crowning of the 1994 king and queen; Dan Webb and Ann Madden.

Dinner was served with style in the cafeteria later that night, and the evening was topped off with a Spinner's concert.

Acting out their Walt Disney dreams, the fine and performing arts club don their favorite costumes for the parade.

During halftime, Ann Madden and Dan Webb are crowned as the 1994 queen and king.

Displaying her wares, Natalie Eshleman studies hard behind the senior table.

Bringing the E-town flag to the fans, the pre-game entertainment makes a daring entrance.

"I don't know, guys...what should we do with it?" Spatula in hand, Todd Eicker is a very familiar face behind the math club table.

Homecoming

Perusing the 1994 Conestogan, two colorful clowns take a break from frolicking at the Midway.

Another STRIKE in the human bowling game!

Smiling for the crowd, Ralph Ivory is escorted by his girlfriend during the Homecoming Court presentations at halftime.

"Ah, if only Severeid could see me now!"

Caf King, Dave Salmon, laughs as students take their revenge at the dunk tank.

While raising money for the Education Club, Lena Poff and Brian Ogle enjoy a good joke.

Marla Kipp and Cindy Herring have to stop and think as Professor Clemens asks "Do you know when the movie starts?"

Into the Streets

Smiling while they work, a few E-town students volunteered their free time to clean the Elizabethtown Community Center.

"Is that a Hefty bag?" Community members and E-town students joined together to beautify neighborhood lawns.

On October 29, 1994, various clubs on campus volunteered their time and services for the "Into the Streets" community service program. The Learning Center was actively involved in coordinating the program and getting volunteers to sign up for a variety of projects. Some of the projects worked on in the Elizabethtown community and surrounding area were: painting a map at a local elementary school, cleaning local parks, community centers, and highways, reading programs at schools, and even raking leaves for members of the community. The "Into the Streets" project was a great success and brought the college and community closer together.

The FunFort was a favorite choice of student volunteers.

Introducing the wonders of the French language, Trinity Deavor teaches E-town Middle School students how to pronounce color names.

Chris Parker looks to the sky as he repaints a room of the Lancaster YWCA. Students helped out all over the county.

"West Side Story"

Performing before sold-out audiences each night, the Elizabethtown theater club dazzled the crowd with stellar performances from cast and crew alike.

E-town's production of the musical "West Side Story" was the first of its kind on campus, because the cast was joined by a 40-piece pit orchestra to enhance the performance. The audience was impressed not only by the acting, but also by the musical accompaniment and outstanding choreography. The performance has set a new standard for future productions.

"So do you want to dance or not?" Kristen Chase asks John Yeomans.

Gazing into each other's eyes, Mike Scharfenberger and Kathryn McCluskey re-enact the famous balcony scene between Tony and Maria.

Falling to their knees, Saul Passe and his posse plead to the audience.

"How about if everyone mingles?" suggests a stylishly clad Miriam Zucker.

Realizing that they cannot be together, Mike Scharfenberger and Kathryn McCluskey embrace tightly before parting.

Staring each other down with dueling eyes, John Yeomans and Kevin Urban arm wrestle for the turf.

Marriage. Marriage is what brings us together today. . . .

After a bad week of studying, Saul resorts to chomping on a posse member's hair.

Holidays

Elizabethtown students celebrate holidays in style, from Thanksgiving to Christmas.

With a carve-your-own-turkey dinner in the cafeteria, Thanksgiving is one of the most memorable events on campus. Professors donate their time and serving skills as students sit back and enjoy the change in roles.

Christmas is also highly festive, creating a joyful atmosphere on campus. Tree decorating contests and a special dinner keep spirits high even during the stresses of finals week. The Winter Wonderland semi-formal culminates the Christmas celebrations.

Smiling for the camera, these three ladies have one last wild blast of fun before attempting to tackle finals next week.

Caught in the act, Chris Hepler, Brad Karli, and Craig VanDemark tried to entice a young lady into their circle.

"Am I doing this right?" Carving the Thanksgiving turkey is something everyone has seen, but few have actually done.

Bus Stop

Each semester, student performers devote hours of their time preparing for a major theatrical event. Once they are ready, they entertain the student body and members of the community with the fruits of their efforts. The final results are always highly enjoyable.

Sporting a cast of eight, "Bus Stop" staged its debut under Professor Michael Sevaried's guidance. This spring production ran for two consecutive weekends and received high praises.

The play was set in a street-corner restaurant just west of Kansas City. It centered around the actions and changing relationships between the characters and the personal growth each individual underwent.

Supporting the cast was a stage crew who worked hard to design an authentic 1950's style set for the production. As with any performance, the work of those behind the scenes is crucial to a successful show.

Warming his hands by the heater, Kevin Urban takes a break from keeping peace as the sheriff in "Bus Stop."

Posing as a young, naive waitress, Jaime Heckman cleans the counter in preparation for the arrival of bus passengers.

During dress rehearsal, Professor Sevaried gives final instructions to his cast.

Spring Arts Festival

The annual Spring Arts Festival kicked off the twenty-first TGIS weekend this year. The five-day festival featured a wide variety of student artists and art forms. Bands from on and off campus performed throughout the week.

In addition, the student art show opened in the Hess Gallery of Zug Memorial Hall. Comprised of watercolors, charcoals, metal sculptures, and works of several other media, the exhibition highlighted the talents of many students.

Another component of the festival was the student-run club fair held Saturday morning of TGIS weekend. All kinds of treats were offered at the stands which lined Baugher Avenue.

Strolling storytellers, poetry readers, and singing groups contributed to the festival, as well. In addition, aspiring artists could display their talents with chalk on the sidewalks surrounding the Annenberg Center. The festival continues to expand as it gains popularity.

A few members of Phalanx, the a capella group on campus, serenade the crowd in front of the High Library with their smooth-sounding voices.

Acting out their parts, Bruce Hansen and Chris Rudsill perform a children's play during the Spring Arts Festival.

One of several clubs involved in the club fair offered face painting to any interested takers.

Milling about in their "Bus Stop" costumes, cast members encouraged festival-goers to attend one of the weekend's performances.

Professor Wheelersburg and his children listen attentively as Dr. Bard shares his storytelling expertise.

T.G.I.S.

"What's down there?" asks a brave student before she takes the dive into the unknown challenges of the Velcro Obstacle Course.

John Rorick, Mat Cook, and Gary Sprengel strutted their stuff during their stage debut as the Jive Bunnies.

The moment of truth is almost upon him. . .when Mike gets to see for himself how the caricaturist chose to depict him.

After a day full of fun, the picnic gave students a chance to enjoy the quiet company of friends.

Students munched on sno-cones and showed off their temporary tatoos while waiting in the long line for caricatures at this year's TGIS weekend. The sun shone through to the last note of Needlejack's picnic performance. It was another long-awaited, and highly-enjoyed, TGIS weekend.

The Spring Arts Festival got the day rolling in the morning, and by afternoon the activities began in Brinser Field. In addition to the annual airband competition, the Velcro Obstacle Course added a new challenge for ambitious students. Spectators enjoyed watching contestants get themselves out of sticky situations.

Just when it seemed that things were winding down, a local band, Ocean Blue, gave a concert in the gym. Following the concert, a dance was held in Hershey Hall which attracted one of the largest crowds of the semester.

The weekend was finally completed Sunday night with an impressive fireworks display that reinforced the Mardi Gras theme.

Jenna Schillig smiles with delight after completing the Velcro Obstacle Course.

Jen Grady puts her sno-cone on ice while she leaves her mark on the Annenberg Center sidewalk.

Junior/Senior

The annual Junior/Senior semi-formal is a chance for couples or friends to leave behind the demands of the ending semester and enjoy a relaxing night out.

Hosted by the Radison Penn Harris Hotel, the night began with a formal dinner. Guests could choose from chicken, pasta primavera, or sirloin tips as their main course. Afterwards, many returned to their rooms to change into more comfortable clothes for dancing.

Students returned to the ballroom later that night when the dance began. Music was provided by a disc jockey, and guests experimented with all forms of dancing imaginable.

For the early risers, a continental breakfast was provided Sunday morning before checkout. For the less ambitious, checkout came far too early.

Doing the tango, Mary Griffith and Chuck Hartzel slow dance to the last song of the night.

Look, Mom, no hands! Matt Heinz floats above the crowd as he is passed from person to person.

Grooving to the music provided by the DJ, these students make their own waves at the Jr./Sr.

Enjoying their evening to the fullest, these ladies tried to see how many people could fit on the bed at one time.

Ever-confident, Chris Thompson can raise his hands. . . 'cause he's SURE!

Junior/Senior

Some of the more outgoing juniors and seniors take to the dance floor to demonstrate their free spirit.

Entwined in each other's arms, Katie Frillig and her date smile before going down to the ballroom.

Stopping for the roving photographer, this small group posed one last time before leaving the formal.

Sharing a dance, Brian Falck sweet-talks a smile onto Kelly Calnon's face.

Commencement

The morning of May 20, 1995, found seniors awaking to bright sunshine and even brighter visions of their futures. Laughter, shouts, and words of congratulations filled the air as parents and friends sought out the soon-to-be-graduates even before the ceremony began. By ten o'clock, everyone began to drift towards the dell to await the ceremony.

This year's commencement speaker, Kenneth L. Wolfe, Chief Executive Officer of Hershey Foods, urged the graduates to appreciate the changes that have occurred in the work place over the past thirty years. With the changes has come more challenging work, but also more satisfying and rewarding results.

Following the address, the degrees were conferred upon the members of the graduating class, and class president Tricia Campbell presented the class gift. The Class of 1995 chose to construct a gazebo and brick patio near Lake Palacida as a lasting reminder of their presence, and a contribution to the beauty of the campus.

Victory! Graduates left the stage in a variety of ways, all happily expressing their enthusiasm.

Graduates thank their parents in different ways. . . this is one of the more creative!

Class President Tricia Campbell shared words of wisdom with her fellow classmates as they prepare to enter the real world.

Commencement

"By the power vested in me by the state of Pennsylvania. . ."
President Speigler had the honor of conferring the degrees upon the graduates.

Adding an amusing diversion to the ceremony, graduates started an impromptu beach ball volleyball game.

Tammy Ireland, Kim Smith, and Maryellen Pierantozzi seek each other out after the ceremony to share hugs and congratulations.

Ferd Bikle takes the speaker's words to heart as he waits to receive his diploma.

Quad-mates Marie Considine, Tracie Danzeisen, Keri Killeen, and Karen Rosetti share a group hug with Brian Torbeck.

Chris Black and Rebecca Blow smile as they wait to process out of the dell.

Graduates saluted their friends and family as they crossed the stage.

Michael Anderson looks innocent enough, but at his feet is a bag full of water balloons!

Emitting the Image...

SENIORS

Senior. The word instantly conjures up images of caps and gowns, diplomas and resumé's. It reflects the qualities of determination, responsibility, and hard work that have been expended by individuals striving for excellence. And for those who wear the title, it means images of the future coming into sharper focus as graduation day grows closer.

After spending the best part of two decades in the classroom, the members of the Class of 1995 have reached the pinnacle of their undergraduate years. For some, it means relocating and continuing their education in search of a higher degree. For others, it means beginning the job search and entering the work force. Either way, as seniors pack up their belongings and turn in their keys, they are closing the door on the past four years of their lives, and opening the door into their future.

Regardless of the path they chose, seniors leaving Elizabethtown College carry with them the values and knowledge they have gained during their years of study here. Encouraged by the support of family, friends, and faculty members, they step into their future with confidence and optimism. Four years of preparation are about to bear fruit.

Leading the way back the aisle, Bryan Zeamer reflects on his graduate status.

By the time we're seniors, we've mastered the art of reading and walking at the same time. Ginger Wallace never breaks stride as she turns to page two.

After lunch, it's on to the BSC in the hopes of finding some mail. Marisa Bowman, Martha Ladd, and Megan O'Brien are used to the routine.

Julie Russack, Jessie Nalpathanchil, Heather Haldeman, and Heidi
Trexler are all dressed up... and on their way to the senior banquet.

Do Sunho maneuvers the ball down the field with skill and agility.

Kris Kruse flashes a smile as she waits to pick up her graduation packet in Hershey Hall following the ceremony.

If you're looking for Doreen Callaghan, you can usually find her in the BSC cramming for her next exam.

As one of the senior class representatives, Creighton Faust proceeds across the soccer field during the halftime ceremonies at Homecoming.

Laurie Strehl and Marisa Bowman offer each other congratulations on their four-year accomplishment.

In their roles as Maria and Tony, Kathryn McCluskey and Mike Scharfenberger contributed their talents to create a phenomenal production of West Side Story.

Heather Hewson and Doug Panner stop in passing to compare weekend plans.

Even Mother Nature was smiling as the Class of 1995 received their degrees. Stacy Koll and Heidi Trexler share their happiness with their families.

Be it fair weather or foul, Ferd Bikle and Lee Sitter can usually be found on the BSC terrace talking with friends.

Sharpening Our Image...

UNDERCLASSMEN

Say cheese! A picture is worth a thousand words, and we created a section with many of the memories we've captured on film this year. In addition to the events we have recorded within these pages, each student makes his or her own unique scrapbook of memories, including scenes from the first Into the Streets, to the gradual raising of the chapel.

Freshmen started the first page in their album, arriving on campus to a whole new panorama. Meanwhile, the cameras continued to click for sophomores and juniors, adding to the portfolios they had already begun. As the years go by, the tales of our lives can be told with the many "Kodak moments" these photos portray.

Whether a novice or a pro, photographers had many opportunities to use their skills. Cameras were crucial at once-in-a-lifetime events such as Homecoming, Winter Wonderland, and the holiday dinners. On the other hand, photos were also snapped at the most inopportune moments, snagging shots of times you would rather forget. However, whether the rolls of film are filled with posed portraits or catchy candids, the pictures are lasting reminders that will help us all keep a sharper image of these memories in our minds.

Preservation is a residence hall like no other. When asked, the residents listed these reasons for making it their home away from home:

1. Having a single
2. My own space
3. If the room is a mess, so be it, no one else will mind.
4. Everyone is very friendly; we get along great!

Jen Straub and Tony Guerrero relax after a hard day's work.

The SDLCs put in many hard hours of work this year serving the community. Ohm Sweet Ohm worked towards increasing awareness of technology and multimedia. Harmony House served the campus and local elderly by offering music therapy and relaxation techniques. Also involved with the elderly, SHARE provided programs that are not readily available in our area. Two of the programs focused entirely on children. KIC members served as role models through programs like Big Brother/Big Sister, and Saturday's Special held monthly workshops for children in grades K-3. SMACC devoted time to the environment with programs such as Adopt-A-Highway. Finally, Survival of the Fittest presented news we all can use about health and fitness.

FACULTY

Students at Elizabethtown College enjoy a relationship with faculty members that is often absent at other schools.

In addition to their roles as instructors, professors also take an interest in their students as individuals outside of the classroom. It is not uncommon to find office doors open well into the evening, and home phone numbers being distributed for late-night or weekend conversations. These dedicated educators can also be found on the sidelines of sporting events and in the audiences of student performances, showing their support of the athletes and artists. They start out as our professors, but they become our mentors, our confidantes, and our friends. Every student can name at least one professor who has made a lasting impression through his or her caring disposition.

This year, several members of the faculty served their last year. As they look forward to their retirement plans, colleagues and students wish them all the best. They have contributed much to the college community, and their absence will definitely be felt in their respective departments, as well as throughout the campus.

Creating An Image...

As everyone knows, classes and academic pursuits are only part of the true college experience. The most common piece of advice given to incoming students is: "Get involved!" With a wide variety of clubs and organizations already established on campus, it isn't hard to do. Everyone can easily find an area of interest.

Here at Elizabethtown College, students have the opportunity to join various clubs. The choices range from older clubs, such as Student Senate, to the newly organized Medicus, which serves the interests of pre-med students. All of our clubs have been developed over the years to incorporate fun into the everyday lives of E-town students. These clubs not only add fun, but they also sharpen students skills in certain areas, whether it be service, religion, politics or art. When the students' skills are sharpened, the College's image is sharpened as well.

The clubs here on campus provide students the opportunity to participate in activities ranging from helping the elderly to sky-diving. Every club tries to meet the needs of its members. By joining the clubs on E-town's campus, students are able to interact with people who share their interests, and in so doing, they enhance their college experience.

Caring for the Body and the Soul

The students of Elizabethtown College are fortunate enough to be able to join a variety of clubs during their four years at the college. Several of these clubs are devoted to the religious well-being of the student body. Religious life is highly valued among the students, and the historic relationship the college has with the Church of the Brethren only reaffirms that.

Members of Brethren Student Fellowship, The Newman Club, IVCF, and Advocates for Peace all meet to gain a better sense of their own faith.

Activities sponsored by these clubs include prayer group meetings, retreats, and guest speakers that serve in reinforcing religious life on campus.

The Newman Club also makes connections between students and the community. Volunteer parish families welcome students into their homes and serve as their families away from home. Members of this club also sponsor annual events such as the Easter Egg Hunt for the children of the community.

All four of these clubs meet for caring and sharing. The religious clubs on campus serve as a bridge between the students and religion.

Along similar lines, the Wellness Peer Educators are a volunteer group of students who promote the awareness of health issues in the college community. Their main function is to provide current and reliable information to the student body. They also serve as a source of support for the students on campus. They want to help Elizabethtown College students to make educated, healthy choices.

Defining Humanity

Departmental clubs offer students the opportunity to explore their interest in a more social manner. A major component of the core curriculum here at Elizabethtown is the social sciences.

These organizations act as an open forum for the members to explore more specific interests than can be discussed in classes. They also offer the opportunity to move beyond the bounds of classrooms to experience the different aspects of humanity.

Whereas honor societies have restricted membership, majors, minors and interested individuals are all welcome to take part in the club activities.

The History Club has co-sponsored movies, taken trips and this year co-sponsored a book sale.

The Psychology Club also had a full agenda. Members worked on the Homecoming Float for the first annual parade at Elizabethtown College. They also attended a Harrisburg Senator's game as a diversion from their studies. On a more serious note, they attended the Eastern Psychology Association Conference in Boston, MA. In addition, they members were also responsible for hosting a speaker on Industrial Organizational Psychology.

Although the Anthropology/Sociology Club is still a young club with few members, they have begun to make their mark on campus. They started out the year with cotton candy sales during Homecoming. From there, their fundraising efforts led them to a "goldfish toss" during T.G.I.S. weekend. They wrapped up their year with a student/faculty recognition banquet.

Campus Media

This year saw new milestones set by each of the campus media. The yearbook had record sales, the literary magazine held their first all-night poetry festival, the newspaper produced their first twenty-page issue, and the television station ran four special segments.

Covering everything from Convocation to graduation, the Conestogan provides the student body with their only permanent record of their college years. Editors Melanie Davis and Kristen Power orchestrated the production of this 200 page memory. This year's book sales surpassed all expectations.

"Fine Print", the literary magazine, is published once a semester and distributed to the student body. An open forum for literary expression, the magazine accepts contributions from any interested students. Under the direction of Jay Morrin, the staff hosted several poetry-reading Coffee Houses, and held their first all-night poetry festival.

One of the greatest challenges a publication can face is a change of leadership. This year, the Etownian successfully made this transition as editor-in-chief Mike Rubinkam left to pursue an internship. Grant Gegwich carried the newspaper through the remainder of the year, which saw the first twenty-page Etownian and the addition of the popular Across Campus page.

Station manager Megan Miller faced the challenges of overseeing the production of seven different television shows and several special programs. ECTV broke into new territory with their coverage of the Elizabethtown Christmas Parade, the Wal-Mart controversy, the MAC Championship soccer game, and an on-location program from Hershey Park's Candy Lane.

The High-Tech World Of Business

Like the science department, the business department offers clubs which reflect the interests of those in this particular major. Such organizations include the Computer Science Club, the Accounting/Finance Club, the Society for the Advancement of Management (SAM), and Students in Free Enterprise (SIFE).

The Computer Science Club participated in Into the Streets, After School Club, and held a GPMA presentation for a local chapter in Lancaster. The Accounting/Finance Club brought to campus many recent Etown graduates and representatives from various accounting firms to provide a familiarity with outside contacts and an informal way for seniors to meet future employers. In addition, the club sponsored its annual banquet at the Black Bear Inn with a speaker from Hershey Foods.

Although the membership for SAM has unfortunately lowered in numbers, its members planned a trip to New York City in conjunction with the International Club. SIFE once again had a very impressive and successful year. This is the sixth year that the organization has competed at the national level, taking its members to Kansas City. Awarding SIFE regional recognition by winning the competition, some of its many activities include programs for Junior Achievement, At-Risk Mentoring Home Schooling, a "Say No To Drugs" sidewalk coloring contest held at KMart, Disney Wide World Of Business, and participation in Into the Streets. Perhaps you noticed on one of your trips to McDonalds, Hardees, or Pizza Hut the "Halt the Deficit" placemats which nudged the organization into the winner's bracket.

Statistics and the People Who Make Them

Elizabethtown College not only prepares its students for 122 the future through challenging classes, it also provides a number of clubs that are directed toward different areas of study.

One such organization is the Pre-Law Club, which is intended for students who wish to eventually go to law school. The club sponsors speakers who provide information about law school and the law school application process. The Pre-Law Club also sponsors enjoyable and educational outings, like the yearly trip to Washington, D.C. to sit in on hearings of the United States Supreme Court.

The math club is yet another extracurricular activity that is fun while at the same time preparing its members for their future careers in the mathematics field. In the 1994-1995 school year, the math club participated in the homecoming festivities, had a fall and spring picnic, went to a Hershey Bears' game, and sponsored a math awareness week in the local high school and middle school.

This year the College

Republicans have been busy leaving their mark in the government. The club helped three different candidates run for office: Steve MacDonald, who ran for State Senate, Rick Santorum, who ran for United States Senate, and finally Tom Ridge, who ran for governor. College Republicans helped Tom Ridge not only with his campaign, but also with his inaugural ball and fundraising. The club has also sponsored a number of speakers on campus who gave lectures on national politics.

All Aspects of Life

A far reaching plethora of activities, E-town offers clubs for almost any interest be it sports, adventure, or government.

This year's men's volleyball club team finished up their season with a 12-12 record, 4-4 in matches.

A part of the nine team MAC Volleyball Club, the men also took to the courts for the championship tournament. This year's team took fifth place out of nine, their best finish in the last four years.

On the adventure forefront, the Outdoor Club sponsored numerous events for the daredevils on campus.

This year's activities included cave exploring, white water rafting, skiing, ice skating, bike trips, hiking, sky diving and skermish paint ball battles.

Looking for the adventure in every activity, they sponsored the sky diver at Homecoming and then tried the sport out for themselves.

On the more official end of the clubs, both Student Senate and the Residence Hall Association (RHA) govern different aspects of college life.

Senate represents the student body with the administration by acting as a sounding board for ideas. They also work to bring the different campus organizations together through Club Council.

While Senate represents the student body, RHA is concerned with campus life within the residence halls.

Sponsoring residence hall wide activities, RHA also works to build cohesive bonds between the different residences.

Artistry and Creativity

Many clubs here at Elizabethtown College are geared toward theatre and arts. One of these is Sock and Buskin. Sock and Buskin's main activities include providing the students and the community with various theatrical performances. They successfully accomplished their goal by bringing us entertainment throughout the sometimes stressful college year. They also performed for the community, staging a children's play on the steps of the High Library during the annual Spring Arts Festival.

Alpha Psi Omega, the theatre honor society, recognizes students for their outstanding achievements in theatre. Another club that is closely related to the theatre clubs is the Art club.

The Art club allows the students to express their artistic ability. This year the Art Club has been involved in numerous events. They participated in Into the Streets, the Christmas tree decorating, the club fair at Midway, and banner-making for the YMCA.

Members of the Education Club also use their artistic talents in many activities and programs.

Big Book-making workshops and storytelling sessions are among the undertakings of this club.

Kappa Delta Pi, the education honor society, has also been involved with workshops at Steelton Elementary School. A special workshop held on campus nearly every year is the Project Wild Seminar. Project Wild helps the students learn how to teach different science lessons when they enter the teaching field. Education majors enjoy many such workshops and graduate with valuable hands-on knowledge.

The Brains Behind it All

The honor societies on campus recognize the academic achievements of students. Most majors on campus are affiliated with one of these societies. The strict academic requirements limit the number of new inductees each year.

Some examples are Delta Mu Delta, the national honor society in business administration; Phi Theta Epsilon, the occupational therapy honor society; Psi Chi, the national honor society in psychology; and Sigma Tau Delta, the international English honor society.

Robert Spencer, the president of Delta Mu Delta, stated the benefits of being an honor society member: "It's a real honor to be a member because it is prestigious and known in the business world."

Beyond the honors bestowed upon the students at graduation, the departments name one individual to receive department honors.

From now on, students will have the opportunity to further their honors by following their departments guidelines. A new program has been developed that allows departments to give honors to as many students as they deem worthy and that have met the requirements.

For the exceptional grade point averages, students are rewarded with the title of College Scholar. They are honored each year at Convocation and are required to have a 3.75 GPA on a 4.0 scale.

Down to a Science

Elizabethtown's science-oriented clubs consist of Chemistry, Biology, Physics/Engineering, and Medicus.

Highlighting the year for the Chemistry Club was a trip to Denmark that involved several members of the club and the chemistry department. This year, Jen Kabatt served as president, and Brian Frost served as vice president.

The Biology Club's largest participation was its involvement with Into the Streets. By cleaning Conway Creek which runs through Elizabethtown, the organization extended its hand to help the community and the environment.

The Physics/Engineering Club sponsored a Putting Green at Homecoming, a Haunted Esbenshade at Halloween, a speaker in the field of cosmology, and its second annual engineering contest. Members were also active in the intramural softball league.

Medicus was a brand new organization this year. Created for pre-medicine students, it had an initial membership of approximately twenty-five students. As one of their activities, they visited the Medical College of PA for a tour of the campus. They also organized and held a panel discussion with seniors who have been accepted into medical school. The panel allowed graduates to share their experiences with the interviewing process and give valuable insights to current applicants. In addition, Medicus members also went to the cleft-palette clinic in Lancaster. Members enjoy the time spent together and the valuable experiences they gain. With such a successful first year, the club is looking forward enthusiastically.

A Motto of Service

There are several organizations on campus that are dedicated to service. Habitat for Humanity is one of the largest clubs on campus, and won the Outstanding Student Club Award this past year. They are currently in the process of raising enough money to begin construction on a house in the Elizabethtown borough. They are active in the nearby community, including Harrisburg and Lancaster. Their efforts were recognized through a fundraising award issued by Habitat for Humanity International. Their service also takes them farther afield. During Spring Break, they traveled to Georgia to assist in the rebuilding of homes and help with flood relief.

Campus Gold, aside from selling delicious cookies, also runs programs for local Girl Scouts. One such program is "Sink and Swim."

Circle K's ideals are "service, leadership, and fellowship." President Katy Sweeny noted what her involvement has meant to her. "Circle K has given me a chance to help others, and learn about the issues our generation faces, meet fellow Circle K'ers, and make friends of a lifetime, as well as develop personal leadership skills."

SMILE is another large campus club. Members volunteered time working with AIDS victims in the Hope House in Lancaster, they were involved in the Into the Streets community service program, and they held the annual daffodil sale that benefitted the American Cancer Society.

Members of Habitat for Humanity help out at their annual auction. Money from the auction goes towards their first house project in the Elizabethtown Borough.

SHARE the Music

Music was in the air this year on the Elizabethtown College campus. The year brought about the growth of many music-related clubs. Students who participated in clubs such as Band Staff, MENC, and Phalanx enjoyed their favorite past-times (singing or playing an instrument) while others were able to enjoy their talents, too.

The musical clubs on campus were very busy this year with activities and projects. The Band Staff is responsible for coordinating social events for the band, including special dinners.

MENC (Music Education National Conference)

hosted a number of guest speakers who gave informative lectures on such topics as Dalcroze eurythmics, movement therapy for AIDS patients, and an intergenerational choir program. MENC also participated in homecoming activities by working with the Art Club on a float and by sponsoring an alumni banquet.

A fairly new musical group on campus is Phalanx, an a cappella male vocal group. Phalanx has performed at various functions such as the Folk Festival, a concert in the Roost, the talent show, the Spring Arts Festival, and the baccalaureate service.

Phalanx has come a long way in the past year, bringing entertainment to all who hear them.

Another great club on campus is SHARE (Students Helping to Advance Relations with the Elderly). Although it is not directly related to the music department, SHARE also brings much joy to all they work with. SHARE participated in the Adopt-A-Grandparent program, and held monthly bingo nights at Leader Nursing Home. The club also sponsored a speaker on the problem of elderly abuse. Through their many activities, SHARE has helped bridge the generation gap.

Once again Elizabethtown sports teams took to their respective fields to begin another season. They sacrificed hours of their time to become their best. Through their dedication and teamwork, some were even successful enough to make it to the Middle Atlantic Conference (MAC) Championships.

The MAC was founded in 1912 for colleges in specific regions to compete with each other, and has become the oldest Division III conference affiliated with the National Collegiate Athletic Association. In 1993-94 the MAC was reorganized to divide the conference into two leagues; the Commonwealth and the Freedom League. We are currently members of the Commonwealth League, going up against such rivals as Messiah, Susquehanna, and Moravian College.

This year, numerous Elizabethtown teams made it into the MAC tournaments. Some teams, including Men's Soccer, Men's Swimming, and Women's Basketball, captured MAC titles. Others excelled throughout the season and maintained high standings in the conference.

With the success of E-town sports, many students eagerly await the 1995-96 season, expecting it to be filled with new achievements and goals. Hopefully, with the knowledge seniors passed down, and the experience of returning members, the teams can sharpen their skills and improve their image as they tackle a new season.

MEN'S SOCCER

Jays Capture MAC Title

The 1994 men's soccer season was marked with many memorable moments, including winning the Middle Atlantic Conference title. The team was lead by ten seniors, including captains John Colella and George Crampton, and by junior captain Dan Webb.

Hard work, unending hours of practice, and dedication helped advance the Jays to the MAC title. This work began with a team trip to Colorado. There the Jays not only experienced a victory, but shared in some enjoyable times, bringing them closer together.

The Blue Jays' season included some tough wins over Lycoming, Scranton, and Messiah, with the Messiah game going into double overtime. The Jays' rise to the MAC title included beating both Drew and Lycoming in the NCAA tournament.

Head Coach Skip Roderick characterized the season as one of high expectations and a surprising finish. He commented, "I am excited for the growth of the team in that we came a long way. E-town is not a one man team." He added that, "the graduating seniors will be greatly missed." The Blue Jays concluded their season with a 19-4 record. This year's performance has shown the development of the team. With the experience of the veteran team members and the determination of the younger ones, the Blue Jays have a solid future ahead of them.

WOMEN'S SOCCER

Season of Changes

The Women's Soccer team underwent many changes this season. To begin with, Barry Dohner came in as the head coach of an entirely new coaching staff. In addition, this year's team lacked the initial familiarity most teams already have due to returning players. The Lady Jays started six freshmen this year, adding a new perspective to their playing strategies.

The new additions to the team did not detract from their performance, however. In fact, the ladies enjoyed a highly successful season. Under the guidance of senior tri-captains Heather Hewson, Gretchen Hartigan, and Lisa Schellhorn, the Women's Soccer team put together an impressive 13 - 7 record, which tied the school's record for most wins. Along the way, the team recorded six shutouts and won ten of their last twelve games.

Coach Dohner expects great things from this young team. "To be successful, everybody has to play as a team. We accomplished that this year. I saw camaraderie develop on the field, and next year I expect very good results."

Barbara Fussaro stays ahead of the competition.

Nicole Rump beats the opponent to the ball.

FIELD HOCKEY

Desire and Determination: Keys to Success

The 1994 field hockey team enjoyed a successful season, finishing the season with an impressive record of 15-5. Coach Yvonne Kauffman feels several key elements contributed to the victorious season. First, ten team members spent sixteen days in England last summer playing field hockey and learning valuable skills from other coaches. The second factor was the experience the 1994 team gained from playing together for several years. And finally, the Lady Jays had desire and determination, which brought about victory after victory.

The five senior captains, Arlisa Snavelly, Stacey Gehrig, Susanna McKenna, Kirsten McClune, and Kelley Burk had much praise for their team. "We really played as a team this year. We will definitely miss everyone next year," said Arlisa Snavelly. "The only real disappointment of the season was not going to MAC's because of the loss of one crucial game."

The JV program produced a strong team this year as well. Junior team member Michelle Troutman appreciates the depth the JV program gives to the team. "It gives those players who do not get a lot of varsity playing time good experience," said Troutman. Judging from the success of the Junior Varsity squad, the field hockey program at Elizabethtown College has a promising future.

Teams Excel on the Course and in the Classroom

The women's cross country team season was highlighted by a second place finish at the Mid-Atlantic Conference Meet. This was the second year in a row that the team achieved this status. Individually, sophomore Mindy Enterline finished eighth at the Mid-Atlantic Conference Meet earning a medal for her accomplishment. Senior Alison Smith was awarded NCAA Division III All Academic honors. According to Head Coach Dale Luy, "the women's team had very good depth and quality."

The men's team finished eleventh in the Mid-Atlantic Conference Meet. Sophomore Bruce Hansen maintained his most valuable runner status for the second year in a row. John Leaman and Rob McManus were given NCAA All Academic honors.

Overall the women's team finished the season with a record of 5-3, and the men's team finished with a record of 3-5. Looking forward, the women's team will lose two runners and the men's team will lose three to graduation. Coach Luy states, "I am looking at a young team down the road." However, with five of the top seven female runners returning and with the depth of the returning men's team, the Blue Jay runners look forward to a successful season in 1995.

VOLLEYBALL

New Additions Cause Great Improvements

While last year's volleyball team faced many difficulties and a disheartening season, team members did not allow the past to effect this year's performance.

The Lady Jays broke from the controversy of last season and underwent what coach Bill Helm calls, "a huge turnaround." Helm came to the team this year intent upon improving the program. His direction made it possible for captains Trisha Forney and Deana Maguire to lead the squad to an impressive 21 -13 record, coming back from last season's 3 - 26 fall.

With only one senior contributing to the team, youth was the key word this season. The twelve-member team consisted of seven freshmen, all of whom were outstanding athletes with much to contribute. They quickly bonded into a team and came within one game of qualifying for MACs.

As for next year, Helm predicts big things. Forney is the only member of the squad to graduate, leaving a solid base behind. While they will be facing a tough schedule, the team's newly found momentum and confidence will carry them through what hopes to be an even stronger season.

Karyn McKinney outspikes the other team.

Teammates congratulate one another on a job well done.

WOMEN'S TENNIS

Season Of Success and Surprises

In an attempt to match the Middle Atlantic Conference champion success of the 1993 season, the 1994 Lady Jays tennis team came very close. The successful and victorious season ended with a 5-1 record in the Commonwealth League. The Lady Jays made it to the team MAC semi-final round, losing to Freedom League rival Scranton.

Representing Elizabethtown in the MAC individual tournament were sophomores Lottie Smith and Nina Carello. Each faced a tough draw, playing the number one and two seeds respectively. Unseeded and playing together for the first time this season, sophomore Jennifer Bashore and junior Lisa Zimmerman claimed the doubles title.

Kathy Montgomery finished her second year at Elizabethtown as Head Coach and looks forward to next season. As the team loses no one to graduation, they expect another successful season next year.

WRESTLING

Season of Triumphs and Disappointing Injuries

The 1994-1995 wrestling team saw many triumphs and also several disappointments this season. Overall, the team finished the season with a record of 9-11-1.

The triumphs came in several forms. Triumph came for junior Justin Barbush and senior Bryan Zeamer in the form of national title bids. For freshmen Kevin Latchford and Mark Frymoyer and junior Jason Ford, triumph meant a bid for a title at the NCAA East Regional tournament in Collegeville, PA. Barbush also triumphed at the Middle Atlantic Conference tournament, earning the 134 pound title.

The disappointments came in the form of several injuries. Sophomore Jamie Hollinger was forced to sit out of the East Regional tournament due to a knee injury. Zeamer and Ford were also forced to miss several key meets due to injury.

According to Head Coach Eric Mast, "our three captains lead the team skill-wise and talent-wise." This leadership provided for a season of many triumphs, and with two of the captains returning next year, the potential exists for a great season next year.

MEN'S BASKETBALL

Team Accomplishes Goal

The Blue Jay Men's Basketball team had a goal when they started the 1994-1995 season. The goal was to be a contender in every game they played. Through hard work, dedication, and a lot of practice, the team accomplished their goal, giving every game an outstanding effort.

The men's season started off on a very positive note with a victory over Colby at the Gettysburg tournament. This game also saw senior team member Travis Crozier score a career high 37 points. The streak continued when the team beat Lebanon Valley College and Susquehanna University in back-to-back Saturday games. Coach Schlosser attributes a lot of the Blue Jays' success to the strong leadership of Mike Anderson and Travis Crozier. Schlosser said, "the 1994-1995 team had the best team chemistry and attitude that I've seen in my five years of coaching at E-town."

According to Schlosser the future looks bright for the Elizabethtown College Men's basketball program. The team has already set a goal for next season - to continue playing with positive attitudes and team cohesiveness and improve their record to being one of the top two teams in the Mid-Atlantic Conference.

Jesse Kulp goes up for two against the Susquehanna defense.

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

All Stars of the MAC

The Lady Jays basketball team once again shot and bounded to the forefront of its competition. With an overall record of 23 wins and 5 loses, and an outstanding league record of 13 - 1, the team captured the Commonwealth League title. The Lady Jays followed this accomplishment up by securing the Middle Atlantic Conference title.

Individual members of the team were recognized for their outstanding ability. Senior Heidi Metzger was named to the MAC first team, and seniors Jen Harleman and Kris Kruse were named to the MAC second team. Metzger was also honored as a Regional All-American.

Brenda Wessel joined Metzger, Kruse, and Harleman as MAC All-Stars. Harleman and Julie Ogurcak were named MAC Academic All-Stars.

This outstanding group of ladies went beyond MAC competition to compete in the first round of the NCAA Division III Tournament. Head Coach Yvonne Kauffman defined the team as "cohesive" and "a good team both personality and skill wise."

SWIMMING

Team members celebrate their victory by sending coach Guinivan for a swim.

Men Capture MAC Title

For the first time in twenty-five years, the men's swimming team has clenched the Middle Atlantic Conference championship title. Under the guidance of coach Mike Guinivan and the leadership of senior captains Joseph Kondisko, Nick Nusbaum, Mike Schlotterbeck, and Judson Wagner, there was little doubt that this team was capable of great performances.

According to Guinivan, the team's broad ability base was a key factor in their successful season. After coming close to winning the MAC title last year, the men returned determined to capture the prize this year, and did.

Mike Schlotterbeck topped his career by earning seven gold medals at MACs and also receiving his second David B. Eaverson Award, recognizing him as the top male swimmer in the conference.

The women's team started the season slowly, but gained strength with each meet. Tri-captains Kim Lotts, Heidi Frank, and Kelly Donovan led the team through the season and to MACs. Once there, Lotts snagged the gold medal in the 100 yard freestyle. The women were pleased with their performance and look forward to a strong showing again next year.

BASEBALL

Top of the League

As the spring semester began, it was once again time for sporting teams to break out the equipment and prepare for the coming season. While some teams remained on campus for practice, others travelled farther away. The baseball team headed south to Cocoa, Florida for pre-season training during Spring Break. Upon their return, they initiated an impressive start to their regular season.

Winning ten of their first twelve games, the men proved to be an unstoppable force. Ian Smeltz and Jon Hendl led the team in batting early on, and continued to contribute to the team average as the season progressed. The team's overall strategy was to take the lead early in each game and maintain the momentum through the final inning. While this plan of attack didn't always work, the men inevitably pulled through each game to keep possession of their top ranking in the conference.

With senior Gary Yeager stationed on the mound, the Blue Jays dominated 26 games this season and clinched a spot at the MAC championships. Their strong defense, combined with an admirable offense, made the 1995 baseball team one of the best to grace the field at Elizabethtown College.

SOFTBALL

Season Swings from High to Low

It was the best of times. It was the worst of times. The 1995 softball team experienced a season of ups and downs; of triumphs and defeats. Through a difficult season, team members showed tenacity and determination as they strove to improve their record and make MAC playoffs.

The season began with very high expectations. The Lady Jays maintained an excellent rapport on the field and had a solid starting defense. On the mound, sophomore Sallie Mohr consistently pitched well and maintained an excellent personal record. With potentially two more years to go at Elizabethtown, Mohr will be a driving force in the team's push for the MAC championship.

Bouncing back and forth between wins and losses, team members maintained a positive mental attitude throughout the season and always took the field with their heads up. Giving one hundred and ten per cent in each game, the Lady Jays epitomized the determination, pride, and sportsmanship qualities that make Etown athletes the best in the conference.

Although they were eliminated from post-season action, team members continued to play hard in their final games, working to establish a solid foundation for the future. With only two seniors graduating, the team hopes to polish their skills and be very competitive next season.

GOLF

"Putt-ing" it Together

While last year's golf team was hampered by weather conditions that interfered with their pre-season practice, and even delayed the start of the season by several weeks, this year's team was able to hit the greens early in the year and improve their game.

Returning as coach for the second year, Keith Marks helped the team hone their skills. Their workout began when they travelled to the Pinehurst Golf Course in North Carolina for training during Spring Break. They returned with an optimistic outlook for the season, hoping to finish in the top three of the conference.

Kyle Little and Ben Smith emerged early on as leaders of the team, but all members remained competitive throughout the season. While their placement at some tournaments might have suggested otherwise, the Blue Jay team improved greatly as they progressed through the semester, and they finished their regular season matches pleased with their efforts.

This year's MAC championships were held in the Poconos at Mt. Laurel Resort. The team went in aiming high, hoping to rank between third and sixth place out of the sixteen teams that would be present. Their goal was achieved as they captured the fifth place position. This ranking was the highest any Etown golf team has gained in thirteen years.

The day was especially successful for Smith, who landed first place overall. Not only did this award him with great personal satisfaction, it also made him the first Elizabethtown golfer to ever win the MAC crown.

With the fifth place finish at MACs, Etown golfers established themselves as solid competitors in the Mid-Atlantic Conference. Many of the team members will return next year to push the team even further.

CHEERLEADING

Tricia McDonald and Marissa Kepner show their spirit as they lead the crowd in supporting the men's soccer team.

Marissa Kepner focuses her attention downfield as the Jays maneuver the ball into scoring position.

Squad members "lift" the crowd's spirit. With such a successful season, the stands were full of enthusiastic fans.

Stacie Bowers' energetic performance on the sideline encouraged the crowd to vocalize their support.

Squad members show off a new routine for the Homecoming crowd.

Chris

We watched you grow from a child to a young man. . .and we enjoyed every minute. We now watch you grow into your chosen profession. . .and we anticipate the enjoyment.

Surely, your name will be in lights. . .if not on Broadway. . .in your family's hearts.

We are proud of you!

Mom and Dad

To Our Dear Holly,
Congratulations to a wonderful daughter. We are so proud of you for all your hard work and accomplishments. Most importantly, we are proud of the person you are and the choices you have made. Always remember, Holly, if any time you need us along the way, we will always be here for you. We love you so very much.

Love, Mom and Dad

Congratulations, Gary!

Wow, it's so hard for us to believe you're graduating from college, accomplishing not only our hopes and dreams for you, but succeeding in all the goals you have set for yourself. What more could a family ask for, an excellent academic education, captain of your baseball team, All-American team, MVP honors, member of the Delta Mu Delta, and more. It seems like just yesterday you were playing little league as an All-Star, and now you're an All-Star young man. For all your accomplishments, for all the obstacles you've triumphed over, for how proud you've made us feel, we hope and pray the rest of your life will be as fulfilling and gratifying as God can bless it to be. In our minds, Gary Leonard Yeager, Jr., we are overwhelmed with your success as a young man, but never forget in our hearts, you'll always be our "Little Gary."

*We Love You
Proud Parents and All Family Members
Jen and Lindsey*

Congratulations to all the young men and women in the Class of 1995 for all your accomplishments and God Bless.

Katie,

Teaching attracts special people who derive joy from awakening the curiosity of young minds and in so doing touch the future.

You are that type of special caring person. We are so proud of all you have done and the person you have grown up to be. You will make a WONDERFUL teacher. Now go out and touch the future, your students are waiting.

Love,

*Mom, Dad, Jimmy
Sugar, Tyler, & Doodles*

Maura Ruth,

Dear Maria,

We are all so proud of your accomplishments at E-town. You worked very hard each year, and overcame many personal hardships in our family during these four years.

You are an excellent teacher!!

The entire family wishes you good fortune and a long and happy life.

With all our love,
Mom, Dad, Anthony, Michael and all of the family

CONGRATULATIONS!

YOUR FAMILY and FRIENDS

ARE VERY PROUD

OF YOU

CONGRATULATIONS
ROB!

The years seem to have flown by and you've turned from a little boy into a fine adult. The road hasn't always been easy and there have been disappointments and hurdles along the way, but you've handled them all. Your success is proof of your hard work, desire and determination. We hope you are as proud of yourself as we are, and may the years ahead be filled with all that you're deserving of: love, health, happiness, and success.

All our love,
Mom, Steve, Noelle &
"Big Guy"

Hold fast to your dreams and never stop trying!

CHILD, CHILD

Child, child, love while you can
The voice and the eyes and the soul of a man;
Never fear though it break your heart--
Out of the wound new joy will start;
Only love proudly and gladly and well,
Though love be heaven or love be hell.
Child, child, love while you may,
For life is short as a happy day;
Never fear the thing you feel--
Only by love is life made real;
Love, for the deadly sins are seven,
Only through love will you enter heaven.

TO DEE SMITH:

You have worked hard to reach this milestone in your life. There was never a doubt in our minds that you could do it. Once again, you have made us very proud. Pappy Dreese would be especially proud, too.

May the future bring you all that you hope for and more. Be happy and God bless you in all that you do.

Love, Mom & Dad

Jennifer- It is with pride that we celebrate your graduation. With your E-town education and uncanny ability to identify opportunities, we are convinced your future has no limit.

Love Mom & Dad

Drew Glenn,

Dad said, "study hard," and you did! You have achieved one of your goals in life through hard work and endless determination. Be proud of your accomplishments as we are very proud of you. Most importantly, we love you for just being you. Congratulations and God Bless You.

Love, Mom and Dad

Having you for a daughter has brought us many joyful times and proud moments. Congratulations! We knew you could do it.

Tracy we are very proud of you as always. We cannot put into words how we feel. We wish you the best in the future and we will be behind you 100% in whatever you elect to pursue. Well, its finally here, the 4 years are done. We all made it. Congratulations!

Love,
Mom, Dad, Robyn, Grandmom and Grandad

Dear Ann,

May God bless and guide you on your path to becoming a Lawyer. We are so very proud of you. Keep your faith and it will carry you through rough times. Thank you, Ann, for being you!

It's wonderful to have a dream come true. Ever since you were born, a dream of ours was to see you graduate from college. You have grown into a special man with your own objectives and a spirit to accomplish your future wishes.

We are so proud of your accomplishments. Always take time to learn from your past, enjoy the present and plan for the future. You have to know how much we love you and that we hope that all your dreams come true. Love Mom & Dad

Congratulations Chris on your outstanding efforts and accomplishments in getting a college degree. We knew you could do it. Good luck in the future!

We Love You!
Mom, Dad and Michael

Audry:

Our little girl, all grown-up and ready to make a giant step into the world. With your quiet compassion and sense of fairness, you will go far.

May your future be as bright as your beautiful smile.

We are very proud of you.

Danielle, Congratulations on this your very special day. You have brought more joy to our lives than you will ever know. Your Dad and I want to thank you for enriching our lives and the lives of your brothers, Chris and Jason. Our wish for you is HAPPINESS and HEALTH!!!

All our love,
Mom, Dad, Chris & Jason

Sarah,
Every person has a choice in life: she may approach it as a creator or a critic, a lover or a hater, a giver or a taker. You have chosen to create, to love, and to give in all that you do. We are very proud of you. Congratulations!
Love,
Mom, Dad and Becka

John, it seems like just yesterday that you were tackling kindergarten & soccer cleats. Now the future is yours. Your academic & athletic achievements have given us great pleasure & joy. It was a wonderful time of sharing. Now to your future, God Bless, good luck and may we always share our lives as happily in the future. With all our love, Mom & Dad.

NO MORE COLLEGE TUITION- HURRAH!

Dearest Amy,

Oh how the years have flown by since that little girl taught her make believe class every day after "real" school.

We are so proud that the long dormant
"pretend" teacher in you is now becoming a reality. How proud Grammy would be to know you are continuing the family tradition of teachers.

With our love and Best Wishes XOXO,
Mom & Daddy

Dear Tracie,

You have made us very happy - you're off the
